

Rebecca J Jacobs

English - Native American Literature

My degree transcends the written word and alights ... to primal connections among the earth

spirit forms imagery

communion.

My passion is the earth's movement--writing this in many ways and forms places me in the space of effortlessness.

Uniting and aligning with these sacred movements and then dancing among them...communicating in the written word...this is the essence of that which drives my existence.

Writing, language, literature, is more than the word. It is dance, hei, beading, riding, flying into epiphany.

Uluakea brings the earthly and celestial into a classroom: Uluakea brings the classroom to the earth and the celestial.

Uluakea connects the learner with the spirit and the earth.

